

Subject Code	ENGL582
Subject Title	Second Language Teaching
Credit Value	3
Level	5
Pre- / Co-requisite / Exclusion	N/A
Objectives	The subject aims to provide students with theoretical frameworks and practical opportunities to investigate and critique practices in English language teaching. The subject aims to encourage students to better understand their practice as dynamically situated in an immediate school and community context, as well as an historical philosophical and theoretical one. The course will draw on the collective language teaching and learning experiences of the group to exemplify and illustrate issues raised. The students will have frequent opportunities to discuss teaching strategies which they may use in their own teaching contexts.
Intended Learning Outcomes	Upon completion of the subject, students will be able to: - demonstrate an understanding of the relationship of their teaching practice to broader policy, theoretical and philosophical contexts. - critically appreciate of range of methodological approaches to the teaching of spoken and written language, with a focus on recent pedagogical trends - Develop a methodological understanding of classroom-based research focusing on specific aspects of teaching and learning.
Subject Synopsis/ Indicative Syllabus	The following topics will be covered: An overview of approaches, methods, techniques: - Reviewing and critiquing the notions of ‘method’ and ‘teaching style’ - Self-reflection on approaches used: The place of theory, principles, beliefs and practical considerations in what we do. Teaching reading (text and image) - Integrating reading into a language program - Developing critical reading skills Teaching writing: - Process and product perspectives: What does it mean to develop your writing skills? - Contexts for learner writing; investigating genres; writing for specific purposes Teaching grammar - Formal and functional grammars and their place in language teaching

	• How does a consideration of grammar assist us in sequencing and progression in language teaching? 5. Teaching spoken language and interaction • How can an understanding of spoken language and spoken interaction inform language teaching • Issues in teaching spoken language 6. Reflection • Where from and where to in ESL in the Hong Kong context? • Research needs and interests
Teaching/ Learning Methodology	This subject focuses on the theories and practice of English language teaching. Teaching and learning will take the form of lecture inputs followed by interactive seminars.

	Individual Assignment 1 - Teaching Statement (30%) Students will write a teaching philosophy statement to outline and discuss the values and principles that underpin their language teaching approach. The statement is not a research paper. However, students will be expected to draw on classroom discussions, lecture notes, and assigned texts. Group Assignment-2 – Lesson Plan (40%) and Reflective Essay on Teaching Practice (30%) Part I: Lesson Plan (group work) The aim of this task is to give students practical experience on how to develop a lesson plan. Students will work in groups of 4-5. They will produce a full lesson plan which will include objectives of the lesson, student audience and context, methodology/ies (explaining why these have been chosen for the particular teaching context), tasks and subtasks.

	Part II: Reflective Essay on Teaching Practice (individual work) Each student of the group will do a teaching demonstration based on part of their lesson plan. They will receive feedback from their group members. Each student will then write an essay to reflect on their own experience of lesson planning, teaching demonstration, and offering and receiving peer feedback.
